S.C. DNR Celebrates 75 Years

Newest Acquisition, Wateree Heritage Preserve, Hosts Field Day Sept. 10

In the past 75 years, the South Carolina Department of Natural Resources Wildlife Management program has grown from a 5,000-acre tract on the Savannah River in Hampton County to a massive, statewide collection of land providing a wealth of public access.

Wildlife Management Areas and Heritage Preserves are protected areas that play a critical role in conserving fish, wildlife and other natural resources. They serve a different purpose than state park lands. Appropriate uses of DNR managed lands are hunting, fishing, wildlife or other natural resource observation and photography, environmental education and interpretation. SCDNR maintains a public hunting program on more than 1 million acres of public land in South Carolina in Wildlife Management Areas and Heritage Preserves. The staff maintains habitat, facilities, infrastructure and access on more than 260,000 acres of Department-owned lands.

Additional Wildlife Management lands are leased, using funds generated from the sale of the WMA permit. Last year, more than 61,000 permits were purchased by hunters for use on WMA lands.

Wildlife Management lands are utilized not only for hunting but for wildlife viewing, fishing, hiking, biking, paddling, photography, research, demonstration, education, horseback riding, and a host of other uses.

As part of a year-long celebration of 75 years of Wildlife Management Areas in South Carolina, the S.C. Department of Natural Resources will host a Field Day on Saturday, Sept. 10 at Wateree River Heritage Preserve Wildlife Management Area.

Wateree Heritage Preserve is one of DNR's most recent acquisitions. The property is a 3,677-acre tract of land located 17 miles east of Columbia on Highway 378 near Eastover. It is open to the public year-round.

The Sept. 10 field day will

Palmetto Series Wrap Up

There seems to always be room for a little "healthy" competition. The Palmetto Series stokes the flame a little more in the already heated rivalry between Clemson and Carolina, while raising awareness of the importance of supporting homegrown agriculture. And when it comes to tastier, healthier favorites, Certified SC Grown is the clear winner.

To win the annual bragging rights and the Palmetto Series trophy, one school earns more points overall through head-to-head sports matchups, academics and community service. It's interesting to have just finished the Olympics and watched so many competitions between the countries; much the same way that the Palmetto Series brings to our attention some sports that don't get as much publicity as others. In the inaugural season, the University of South Carolina, and my alma mater, had a resounding victory over the Clemson Tigers with a final score of 10 to 5. While the Tigers took an early lead, the Gamecocks came back strong to finish with a victory.

USC earned 10 points for wins in men's and women's basketball, women's diving, men's and women's golf, men's and women's tennis, and volleyball. Fans from both schools helped tackle hunger and collectively donated more than 197,000 meals to Harvest Hope, with the Gamecocks taking the fan point for the food drive.

Culinary Training Completed for Farm to School

Cafeteria staff from K-12 schools across the state gathered at Phillips Market Center in West Columbia recently to participate in SC Farm to School Culinary Training.

University of South Carolina chefs Bill Knapp and Walter Jackson instructed participants in knife skills, food safety and preparation of South Carolina-grown fruits and vegetables. The focus was on simple food and recipes that could be prepared in a school kitchen, which students of all ages would enjoy. Participants were encouraged to taste the eight dishes that were prepared.

SC Farm to School connects schools and local farms with the objectives of serving healthy meals in school cafeterias, improving student nutrition, providing agriculture and nutrition education, and supporting local and regional farmers. Since the start of the program, 130 schools statewide have participated.

For more information please go to www.scfarmtoinstitution.com.

Chef Walter Jackson helped participants with knife skills. Julie Allen of Westview Elementary School in Greenwood and Amy Umberger of Dutch Fork Elementary Academy of Environmental Sciences were among those who benefitted from the training.

Commissioner Weathers and USC Coach Ray Tanner

Carolina also won the point for academics with an overall GPA of 3.276. Clemson earned five points for the competition in baseball, women's cross country, football, and men's and women's soccer. I am proud of both schools and all the student athletes for the way that they conducted themselves on and off the field.

The Palmetto Series trophy will be presented to USC on Sept. 17 during the football game against East Carolina. As we wrap up the first year of the Palmetto Series, we look forward to the upcoming events. The second round of competition kicks off again this fall with men's soccer on Aug. 26, followed by women's soccer and volleyball on Sept. 2.

This year, the food drive will run from Oct. 31 through Nov. 21, and the winner will be announced during the Carolina and Clemson football game. Fans can give in multiple ways including donating canned goods and monetarily through the text-to-give option. Consider this: a donation of just $25 provides 125 meals for needy families in South Carolina. In a partnership with Harvest Hope and Golden Harvest Food Banks, we'll work together to help strike out hunger in South Carolina.

As you plan your next tailgate or gathering to watch the big game or some of other sports featured in the Palmetto Series, I hope you'll include some Certified SC Grown products in your menu. Keep up with all the action on www.palmettoseries.com, and follow us on Facebook for recipes to help make your tailgate the envy of the home team crowd. After all, we may not agree about what happens ON our fields, but we can all agree about what's growing IN our fields!

offer a number of special programs and activities led by the DNR's Wildlife Section staff and other outdoor professionals. The activities will begin at 9 a.m. and conclude at 2 p.m. This event is designed to provide outdoor fun and learning for the whole family. Participants will be able to take part in a number of different activities, including:

- Bird ID Walk and Bird Banding Demo
- Reptile and Amphibian Programs
- Archaeology Programs
- Rocket Net Demonstration
- Furbearer Trapping Demo and Track Casting
- Wildlife Photography
- Archery
- Tours

Pre-registration is recommended, especially for activities that have limited space. Those include birding, reptile and amphibian programs, and wildlife photography. Visit DNR's website at www.dnr.sc.gov to register for the event and for a detailed schedule.

"This field day is a perfect opportunity to explore the Wateree River Heritage Preserve," said DNR Region 3 Wildlife Coordinator Willie Simmons. "It is just one of the many Wildlife Management Areas across the state."

SCDNR has provided quality public outdoor recreation opportunities on more than 1 million acres of land across the state for 75 years. For questions or more information about the Wateree River Heritage Preserve Wildlife Management Area, contact the DNR Columbia Office at (803) 734-3898.

Equine Pasture Management Workshop Offered

The Richland Soil and Water Conservation District is sponsoring a free equine pasture management workshop on Sept. 16.

Titled "Healthy Horse, Healthy Land," the session will cover the following topics:

- Impacts of Equine Pasture Management
- Rainfall Simulator Demonstration
- Forage Nutrition and Variety Selection
- Grazing Management and Pasture Weed Management
- Manure Management
- Twenty-five Mile Creek Watershed Funding

Speakers include conservationists and experts from USDA-NRCS, Clemson, DHEC, DNR, and AMEC.

The workshop will be held at Trinity United Methodist Church, 90 Boney Road in Blythewood, from 9 a.m.- 2 p.m. Lunch is provided, but registration is required. RSVP to Charlie Fisher at fisherc@rcgov.us or (803) 576-2080. Pesticide applicators will receive 1.5 CCHs.

Junior Beef Round-Up Provides 10 College Scholarships

The 30th annual SC Junior Beef Round-Up proved to be another hot, yet successful event at the T. Ed Garrison Arena on Aug. 5-7. Clemson Cooperative Extension coordinated the weekend of youth and beef cattle activities for 4-H and FFA members from all over the Southeast.

With more than 165 youth and nearly 300 head of cattle, the Junior Beef Round-Up kicked off its celebratory weekend with a fitting clinic and sales talk competition for exhibitors who were honing not only their fitting skills but also their public speaking and marketing skills.

The event continued Saturday morning with the traditional Cattlemen's Contest. Youth were required to identify feed samples, beef cattle breeds and showcase their general knowledge of the beef industry with more than 100 multiple choice questions in order to compete for awards and scholarships. The winners received more than $8,500 in prizes and scholarships.

Ten junior cattlemen were awarded college scholarships totaling more than $7,500. The South Carolina winners were:

- SC Autism Scholarship: Connor Durham
- Anderson County Cattlemen's Scholarship: Kade Smith
- Greenwood County Farm Bureau Cash Award: Brook Shealy
- Coca-Cola & T. Ed Garrison Arena Scholarship: Lucas Latham
- SC Association of Ag Agents Scholarship: Tara Jenkins
- Steve & Andrea Meadows Hereford Scholarship: Sarah Shore
- Nationwide Insurance Scholarship: Caitlin Griffin

Scholarship winners from out of state were:

- AgSouth Farm Credit Cash Award: Cameron Catrett of Alabama
- Olson Cattle Research Scholarship: Aaron Lay of Tennessee
- Ashton Bray Memorial Scholarship: Emily Ivey of Tennessee

White, Rogers Recognized as Ag Advocates of the Year

The S.C. Advocates for Agriculture recently recognized two people who have shown outstanding commitment supporting and promoting the state's agriculture industry. The 2016 Advocates of the Year are Brian White and Larry Rogers.

S.C. House of Representatives member Brian White is chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, representing District 6 in Anderson County. He has proven himself as a champion for farmers, most notably as the author of House Bill 4717 South Carolina Farm Aid, establishing this one-time lifeline to aid farmers devastated by last October's flooding.

Larry Rogers, State Outreach Coordinator for the Farm Service Agency, began his career with the U.S. Department of Agriculture in 1962. His 54-year-long career has run the gamut from the county office to the state and national level. He enjoys working directly with farmers. Rogers has attended the SC FFA State Convention for 36 consecutive years where he presents the Governor's Citation of Accomplishment to the top three Gold Emblem FFA chapters.

S.C. Advocates for Agriculture was created in 2005 to assist in marketing and promotion of the state's agriculture products and the overall agriculture industry. For more information regarding SC Advocates for Agriculture, visit www.scadvocates4ag.org.
